JEFFRIES WILL LOSE TO JOHNSON

That Butwell is a popular idot with the local race-gores was well attested when he piloted Patay home winner. As the field swept by the stand on the course, the specialors arose en masse, and cheered for at least ten minutes. After this testimonial it was semi-officially annound that the officials had seriously considered the raising of the ban on the New Yorker at an early date.

The victory of Patay was decisive as the sterling son of Peep o Day gave away the proverbial ton of weight to everything in the race, only to come all around his field to win, with something to spare. However, due credit should be given Butwell, who rode an almost perfect waiting race, delaying his move until the stretch bend was reached. When he turned Patay loose the latter bounded away like a quarter horse, to win by open daylight.

Jockey O'Fain, who rode Snow Bail, Monrer of the opening dash to-day, was given a ground lease of one week for cutting across his field.

RENO. NEV., January 1.—Within two hours after she received her decree of divorce from Henry Spies Kip, the New York clubman and broker, Mrs. Frances Coster Kip was married to Julius McCarthy Little, a young mining man, who was her childhood sweetheart at Newport.

As soon as Judge Pike granted her decree Mrs. Kip went to the clerk's office on the ground floor of the courthouse, where Mr. Little joined her, The decree was signed and filed, and then the couple applied for a marriage license. This was granted, and they drove to Mrs. Kip's home, sending word to Rev. C. L. Mears to meet them there. The minister arrived an hour later, and with a friend of each as witness, Mrs. Kip became Mrs. Little.
